In Your Words
By The Editor

Mickaboo was recently recognized as a Top-Rated Nonprofit by Great Nonprofits – an award we have received for several consecutive years.

This award is based on feedback from you, our volunteers, donors, and recipients of our services (generally, bird adopter). Here we share a few of your stories, illustrating some of what your support of Mickaboo, a wholly volunteer-run organization, allows us to do.

From a volunteer:

“Mickaboo has a great mission to help save all parrots. It is an all-volunteer organization, so all donations go directly to helping the birds. My husband and I have had a wonderful fostering experience with them, so far having an Umbrella Cockatoo, Mexican Red-Headed Amazon, and Green-Naped Lorikeet. There are currently over 650 birds in foster care throughout the greater bay area. It is wonderful to be a small part of this organization.”

From an adopter:

“Went through process to Adopt my African Grey Maggie! The classes and information they give is great! They really make sure you and the bird you are interested in are good fit!!!”

From a donor:

I'm the guardian of a flock of rescued birds, including a trio of budgies adopted through Mickaboo. I'm also a donor and occasional volunteer. Mickaboo is a treasure. Its all-volunteer team works tirelessly to rescue, foster, and arrange for the adoption of companion birds, and to provide community education and advocacy to improve the lives of these deserving creatures. Please support Mickaboo with your donation and/or your time.
